Councilman Davison presented a resolution granting the Seymour Manufacturing Company the right to construct a switch along the east side of Broadway between the north line of Fifth and Eighth streets and streets intersecting same, also be granted the right of crossing with branch over extreme northwest corner of city park, where track is now located. The branch is to be used for the purpose of transporting, loading and unloading cars.

The ordinance provides that the tracks shall not be used for storage, and that the streets over which the track is constructed shall be kept in good condition. It also provides that railroad shall be constructed and maintained so as to cause the minimum interference with free and safe passage of vehicles over street. The rules were suspended and the ordinance passed after third reading.

Councilman Davison presented a resolution providing that the benefits to the property owners, to be assessed along the part of Fourth street from Chestnut to O'Brien street exceed the cost of the improvement proposed in the resolution presented on August 18th. Upon motion of Davison the improvement was ordered made. A remonstrance signed by a large majority of the property holders along the street was filed after the resolution was adopted. The property owners had ten days in which to file the remonstrance, but it was prepared and presented as soon as the resolution was adopted.

Councilman Sherman Day stated that the fire plug on Oak street, below Chestnut street was out of repair and suggested that water company repair same. He said that Carter street had been damaged by a water hydrant and street commissioner was instructed to repair same.

Samuel Nicholas asked the privilege of using one horse and wagon belonging to the city to be used in disposing of the garbage. The council ordered that the wagon and horse be used for one month.

G. Harvey resigned as street sweeper. The names of Wm. Postlethwaite and Albert Maston were presented and upon a vote of 4 to 3 the latter was elected as street sweeper.

C. S. Mercer and Mrs. Lynn Faulconer, as president and treasurer of the library board submitted a communication designating the library tax levy at .7 of one mill.

A communication from several residents on north Broadway asked that an electric light be placed on Broadway between Eighth and Ninth streets. The light was ordered placed as designated.

Upon motion of Councilman W. R. Day, the council will meet in special session Monday night.

FORMER COLLEGE STUDENT Is Taken to Indiana Reformatory For Long Term.

Chief of police, John Kotsh, of Terre Haute, and deputy sheriff, C. C. Whitlock, of Vigo county, were here Thursday evening on their way to Jeffersonville with four boys who they will place in the Indiana Reformatory. Two of them were negroes and two were white. They were all sentenced for burglary.

One of the boys, Harry Atkins, is sentenced for a term of from ten to twenty years. The boy had excellent educational advantages as shown by his manner and language and said he was a student at the University of Pennsylvania for several years. He declared that for a short time he was on the reportorial staff of the New York Herald, of which a relative was a manager of one of the departments. When asked as to why he had burglarized the home, he shook his head and said that he did not know.

The other boy has recently served a term in the Reformatory, and was released only about eight months ago. He was sentenced for the theft of a diamond pin.

Series A.
The next series of Co-operative Building and Loan Association stock will be started Monday Oct. 3, 1910. Hundreds of our citizens have paid for their houses and hundreds of others have saved their money systematically through this Association. This new series gives another opportunity to begin this saving. See the secretary, Thos. J. Clark, Opera House block, for full particulars.

Business Opportunity.
On account of my time being taken in the First National Bank, Brownstown, I desire to sell my abstract business, consisting of two sets of books of all lands and lots in Jackson county, two safes, office furniture, fixtures, maps, etc. These books are up-to-date.

This is a growing business and a permanent paying profession.

HIGH HONOR GIVEN TO LOCAL BANKER

H. C. Johnson Elected Member of Executive Council of American Bankers' Association.

ONLY TWO MEMBERS IN STATE

Position is Highest Honor That Can Be Conferred By Indiana Bankers' Association.

At the meeting of the Indiana Bankers' Association at Evansville Thursday, H. C. Johnson, president of the Seymour National Bank, was elected a member of the executive council of the American Bankers' Association, the highest honor which can be conferred by the state association. Besides the distinction of being chosen to this high position, Mr. Johnson was singularly honored in that he was chosen by acclamation. There are two members on the executive council from Indiana, Mr. Johnson having been elected for a term of three years to succeed John Holliday, president of the Union Trust Company of Indianapolis.

The executive council, of which there are only about one hundred members, represents the national association, which has a membership of over 11,300 bankers. The council recommends or approves all matters coming before the national meeting. The members are bankers who have high standing in the financial circles of their own states, and who have worked for the welfare of the state associations. At the present time a large number of the members of the council are prominent bankers who have a national reputation in banking circles.

Mr. Johnson has shown deep interest in the Indiana Bankers' Association for several years, and has held the position as a member of the state executive council, has been vice-president and president of the association in this state. While in office the association was very successful, and he is recognized as one of the most able executive officers ever elected by the state association.

The meetings of the executive council of the American Association are held twice a year, usually on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. The fall meeting will be held this year in Los Angeles, Cal.

The meeting of the state association this year was very successful. Thursday evening an elaborate banquet was given and one of the speakers of the evening was Senator Albert J. Beveridge. At the afternoon session he also spoke, taking for the theme of his address "The Federal Control of Corporations." Col. Charles L. Jewett, of New Albany, also delivered an address in the afternoon.

NIGHT POLICEMEN ON GREEN CARPET

Called Before Board of Safety to Answer Charge of Sleeping While On Duty.

DENIED COMPLAINT AS MADE

Officers Said They Turned Lights Out Of Jail So "Flies Would Not Bother Them."

The night policemen were called before a special meeting of the board of public safety Thursday evening to answer to complaints filed by three prominent business men, which stated that the officers were found asleep at the police station several nights ago, when they were supposed to be on duty. The complainants stated that they were returning home about one o'clock a. m. a short time ago, and near the corner of Indianapolis Avenue and Second street they heard the faint cries of a small child whom they found lying on the sidewalk. The child was thinly clad and they endeavored to find to whom she belonged, but being unsuccessful took the infant to the interurban station where she was wrapped in a blanket until the police could be notified.

The men stated that they looked for the officers for some time about the city and being unable to locate them, finally went to the jail which was darkened, and after pounding on the door several times succeeded in arousing the policemen. They declared that the officers appeared as if they had been sleeping and one of the police men seemed to have gone to bed. The other two were in chairs.

The officers when questioned Thursday night said that they had not been asleep and had just come into the office a few minutes before they were wanted. They said that they had marked up the outage of the electric lights and had turned out the lights in the office so the flies would not bother them. When told, however, what was wanted of them they had little trouble in finding the parents of the child, who informed the officers that she had walked out of the house in her sleep and had gone into the street. The parents of the baby did not know that she was out of the house until the policemen brought her home.

The members of the board of public safety told the officers they had heard other complaints from time to time regarding the neglect of duty, and that hereafter a means would be found so that the board could know how the officers were performing their duty. They were instructed to keep the lights burning the entire night whether the flies bothered them or not and that they must give more time in going about the city, especially between midnight and morning.

The chairman of the board of safety stated that he was in favor of dismissing officers when such reports were filed, and that as a member of the board he would vote hereafter to declare such position vacant when complaints of this nature were filed.

At the same meeting the police were given instructions to enforce the law regarding the speeding of automobiles within the city limits. The officers were told to give this matter their attention some time ago, and stated that they had informed some of the automobile owners that the speeding of their machine must stop but that no prosecutions had been made. The members of the board were of the opinion that the only way to put a stop speeding was to arrest the violators and if necessary give a jail sentence besides a heavy fine.

HAS NO TIME To Bother With Circuit Court Service.

According to the Columbus Herald, Postmaster Otte, of Waymansville, fully appreciates the dignity of his position as a federal official. He was wanted as a witness in a case in which one Clarence Adams was charged with violating the liquor laws.

The Herald says:

"Everybody laughed Thursday morning when Deputy Sheriff W. C. Smith reported in open court to Judge Hacker that Postmaster Otte, of Waymansville, had refused to appear in answer to a subpoena served on him by Deputy Sheriff Ed Garrison Wednesday. Otte told Deputy Garrison that he was an officer of the government and he did not propose to bother about any circuit court service, and insisted that Officer Garrison so inform the court. Otte stated that he did not intend coming here as a witness in the Adams case and so far as he was concerned the court could go to the land where there is no shoveling of snow. When Deputy Smith informed the court of the above everyone was convulsed with mirth, judge included. Otte is wanted as a witness by Mr. Adams in one of the cases against him.

If Otte is really needed an attachment will be issued for him and an officer will be sent to Waymansville to bring him in."

BANNER BUSINESS.

Southern Indiana Has Best Season in Its History.

General Agent Link, of the Southern Indiana, reports that the road has enjoyed the largest business in its history during the summer. The fact that the Illinois miners were out on a strike during the summer while the Indiana miners were at work most of the time, has given the Southern Indiana an unprecedented coal business, the road with all its special equipment for handling coal being at times pushed to take care of the business that came before it. Until the passing summer last winter was the banner season for coal business on the Southern Indiana and the coal traffic during the coming winter promises to be equal if it does not exceed it.

It is not in coal alone that the road has been doing big business during the summer, but in all other kinds of freight is has been a banner season. Especially is this true as to the stone traffic. There has never been a season when the Southern Indiana hauled as much stone as during the past summer. Altogether the outlook for the road is as bright as it could be.

FLAG WAS LOST TWENTY YEARS

One of Eighty-second Indiana's Banners Found in an Indianapolis Store.

VIEWED BY SEYMOUR VETERANS

At Columbus Reunion Thursday. Lowry Foster Elected President of Association.

A number of veterans of the eighty-second regiment from Jackson county attended the regimental reunion at Columbus Thursday. They had the privilege of viewing one of the old flags under which they fought. This flag was lost for twenty years. It was taken into a store in Indianapolis one day and left, wrapped in a newspaper. The man who left the bundle never came after it and the proprietor of the store kept it for ten years without opening it. Finally he opened the bundle and saw that it was a flag, but did not know to what regiment it belonged and it remained in the store ten years longer. Finally it was located by one of the members of the regiment and claimed. After the reunion it was turned over to Major McCormack and placed with the other battle flags in the state house.

J. W. Bedel of this county says this flag was furnished by Company C, and carried by them until after the battle of Perryville, after which the regular regimental flag from the government was received.

The present whereabouts of the latter flag are not known though a hunt for it is being made. It was with the other battle flags at the state house for a time but was let out for some event and has disappeared. It was badly tattered and torn after the war which was evidence of its hard service.

Major McCormack, who is secretary of the Indiana Battle Flag Commission, attended the reunion, and brought from Indianapolis the old banners of the Seventeenth, Seventieth and Third regiments, the latter being a Mexican war regiment. The Seventieth was General Harrison's old command.

Thursday afternoon there was a business meeting and a general good time by the veterans. At night a camp fire was held at which Judge Williams, of Martinsville, was the principal speaker. Quite a number of survivors of the eighty-second from this county attended the reunion. Among those who registered were: J. W. Bedel, Lowry Foster, Balser Kirsch, of Co. B, Seymour; John Brackemier Co. B, Brownstown; J. H. Wohrer, Co. B, North Vernon; W. B. Whitcomb, Co. B, Hayden; John Fox, Co. K, Seymour.

At the election Lowry Foster was chosen president of the association.

WORK HORSES SHOULD RECEIVE GOOD TREATMENT

Keep Them in Condition By Feeding Grain. Work Early in Morning and Late at Night, With Long Rest at Noon.

When the Day's Work Is Ended.

Work horses should be grain fed; a horse cannot work and keep in condition on grass alone. An average sized horse at hard work will require about 16 pounds of good mixed hay, 10 pounds of cracked corn and oats and 4 pounds of wheat bran per day. A bushel of fine-cut hay weighs about 8 pounds, and corn chops about 45 pounds to the bushel. One-half peck of corn chops and one quart of wheat bran, mixed with one bushel of cut hay, adding just enough water to make the meal stick to the hay, makes a good meal for the horse. Give this ration three times a day, with a little long hay at night. If you have a pasture close to the stables, turn the animal out at night, after the mixed feed is eaten.

Work early in the morning and late in the evening and give a long rest during the hottest part of the day. This is best for man and horse. Rest and water the teams between meals. Water that has been exposed to the sun for an hour or two is better for the horse than cold well water. Mix one quart of wheat bran in each bucket of water. Let the horse rest and cool off before watering. One gallon may be given to each one at one time. Have fly nets—a guano sack cut open may be used in place of a leather net to keep off flies. Have strong but light harness. Keep the collars clean, wash the shoulders off with cold water when brought in, and rub dry. For chafed shoulders dust with powdered air-slacked lime or dress with crude petroleum. Keep the stables clean. Open windows and doors for the air to circulate. This is necessary for the health of the horse. Be careful with the teams when labor is heavy and the day hot. If a horse commences to flag and show signs of exhaustion, he should be rested at once, removed to a shady spot, his mouth and nose sponged with cold water, and allowed to rest for an hour or so. Many a valuable animal is permanently injured through pure carelessness on the part of the driver. In harvesting, have the work well planned out; let each man have his part to do. Keep steady at it, with no rushing. More can be done and that without injury to either man or horse.

TO INCREASE FARM CROPS

All Progressive Agriculturists Interested in Question of How to Make Lands Yield More.

All progressive agriculturists are deeply interested in the question of how to increase the yield per acre in the cultivated sections of the United States.

It is well known that the European grows larger crops per acre than are grown in this country, and, as the price of farm land is increasing and there is a demand for larger crops each year, it is necessary to study and learn how the output of the soil can be made to meet the increased demand for all farm products.

The average yield of wheat per acre for 1909 was: England, 34.4; France, 22; Belgium, 39.2; Germany, 30.4; United States, 15.7.

"Von Seelhorst," Royal Agricultural Experiment Station, Göttingen, Germany, says:

"I believe that the principal increase of the harvest is to be attributed in part to the application of artificial fertilizers themselves and in part to their combination with green manures. Through the application of the two the yield upon the average has been doubled on our common light soils. In some cases the yield has even been increased two and one-half to threefold.

"The greatly increased yields which we are now producing in Germany, especially of wheat, are dependent upon improved seed, larger and more intelligent use of fertilizers, especially of artificial fertilizers, better crop rotation and more thorough tillage. Of these factors, however, the use of fertilizers takes first rank very decidedly in increasing the crop yields."

"I can only say that the largest proportion of the increase of different crops in the Netherlands I would attribute to the proper use of commercial fertilizers and to the use of improved varieties of seed, the other factors, rotation and proper tillage, coming in the second place."—The Director General of Agriculture, The Hague, Holland.

President Creelman, Ontario Agricultural College, says:

"Italy has been practicing the art of agriculture since the early days of old civilization, hundreds of years before the Christian era began, and agriculture is still the most important industry in Italy, as 85 per cent. of the soil is productive.

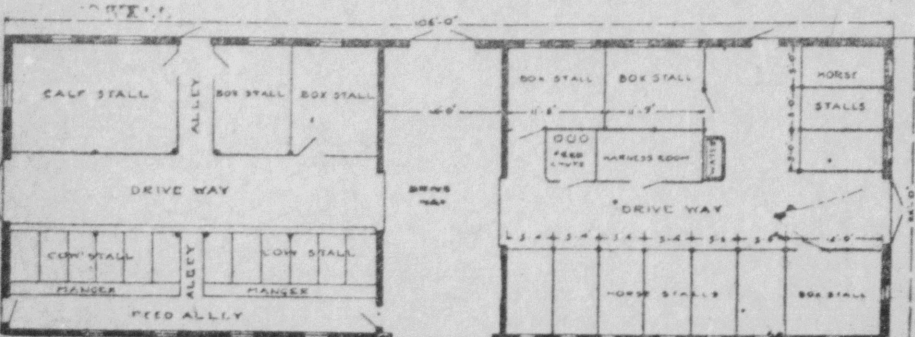

"In this connection, the published statistics showing the amount of commercial plant food materials used in Italy are significant. With a total area of less than 115,000 square miles (about twice the area of Illinois), Italy used 1,147,700 tons of commercial fertilizers in 1907."

"The great factor has been the introduction of fertilizers and purchased feeding stuffs. As soon as you can introduce on a farm some extraneous source of fertility you can raise the standard of production."—A. D. Hall, Rothamsted Experiment Station, Harpenden, England.

Saddle Grafting.

Saddle grafting is used for small plants, the stock being cut to a wedge and the scions cut and set upon the wedge. In splice grafting of the simplest form the two parts are cut across diagonally and laid together, being tied together with a string and waxed. It is useful for soft or tender wood which will not admit of splitting.

GENERAL PURPOSE STABLE

The accompanying illustration shows the elevation and floor plan of one of the barns on the farm of the Wisconsin agricultural college at Madison. It was designed for a general purpose barn and as will be seen it is very conveniently arranged. It might be said that there is too much room taken up by the driveways, but they make the interior accessible to wagons and manure spreaders and prove most convenient. Very desirable features are the five room box-stalls, feed and harness rooms and interior water trough.

In stormy weather the stock can be easily and comfortably cared for in such a barn. Windows are plenty and of sufficient size to permit a free entrance of sunlight. The walls are high and allow a large place on the second floor for the storage of hay, fodder and grain.

Altogether, this plan is an admirable one for the general farmer.

Silage Experiment.

Twenty-three acres of corn after rye, planted June 1, last year, with cowpeas drilled between rows at the first cultivation, produced at the New Jersey Experiment station 214.8 tons of silage. The total cost was $3.51 per ton in the silo.

TOWN HOME HELPS

WHICH OF THESE IS BEST?

Trading With Catalogue Houses, "Sight Unseen," or With Merchant Who Helps Pay Local Taxes?

Catalogue houses or home merchants? Note the following quotations:

CATALOGUE HOUSE.

You buy "sight unseen."
You buy (usually) inferior goods.
You pay spot cash.
You are subject to indefinite transportation or other delays or damages.

You are sustaining a Giant House or Corporation or Trust, at some great center.

You help trade congestion and colossal fortunes at remote points to the damage of local interests.

With shortages or damages or discrepancies to adjust, at arms length you are at a disadvantage.

You cannot possibly hope for anything like exchange trade.

Your doubtful advantage or profit in some instances, is more offset by conditions beyond your control or your influence.

HOME MERCHANTS.

You can make selection.
You get what you pay for.
You can have reasonable credit if you wish and are worthy of it.

You get what you want when you want it.

You buy of your resident friend or neighbor, helping to pay local taxes to support your public schools and home industries, and employ home people.

You aid in a healthy distribution of business, to the benefit of your own community.

You seldom have difficulty in making satisfactory adjustment of difference.

Reciprocal business is often practicable—to your own benefit.

You promote a wholesome and healthful feeling of interdependence that is a mutual benefit.

WHICH IS BEST?

HOME TRADE POINTERS

The dollar you send to a mail order house never comes back to you again.

Mail order bargains are usually dear ones.

The mail order catalogue is a heartless deceiver—and is so intended to be.

Merchants should fight the mail order evil with its own weapons—printers' ink. They can't get out expensive catalogues, but they can do better by using space in local publications, which takes less money and is more effective.

The Chicago mail order house that had a judgment of over $13,000 assessed against it for dishonest dealings is probably a fair pattern for the rest.

The parcels post law is earnestly championed by the mail order houses.

The mail order house never gives your boy a job, never paid dues into your lodge, never subscribed money for your church, never did your community any good.

The mail order house preys upon the prosperity of thousands of towns. It is a veritable blood-sucking vampire.

The mail order house convicted of swindling its customers should be a warning to buyers.

Gold bricks are numerous in the mail order business.

Those who buy of home dealers who get their printing done at home help home interests.

Look for bargains in the advertising columns of your home papers, not in mail order catalogues.

Home-owners depress the value of their own investments when they deal with mail order houses.

The more a man buys of mail order houses, the worse he is off at the end of the year.

Ireland's Increasing Prosperity.

Ireland goes on booming industrially. She raised four million sheep last year, shipped nearly thirteen millions of linen from Belfast to the United States alone, and other exports were: Cattle, $45,734,575; butter, $17,883,600, and eggs, $13,637,050. Of the acres of the "old sod," 2,300,000 are in hay, 12,500,000 in pasture. That is more than three-quarters of the total acreage of the island. The Irishman gets his potatoes out of 587,000 acres. —New York Press.

Served Her Right.

A certain lady, who was always anxious to let her friends know that she was not the same age as her husband, once remarked to a visitor:

"My husband is fifty years of age and there are ten years between us."

The caller, with an exclamation of surprise, said:

"Really, now, why you look as young as he does."—Penny Pictorial.

Most Advanced of Tea Drinkers.

From Vienna Consul General Denby writes: "The Austrians probably use a higher average quality of tea than any other people in the world, except perhaps the Russians, and these two nations prepare their tea for drinking in a more intelligent way than others."

A CASE IN POINT

Mrs. Jones—Don't you sometimes find it hard to show appreciation of the things done for you?

NOT QUITE THE SAME THING

Party Tickets Had Changed Somewhat Since the Old Gentleman Handed Out Advice.

Everybody who had known old Henry admired him for the charity of his tongue when he spoke of his neighbors. It was his most marked characteristic—except the independence which he manifested in his political affiliations. It made a young man who was visiting in the neighborhood curious, and one day he managed to lead up to the subject and ask the old man what had taught him to keep such a good watch on his tongue.

"It was my father," replied the old man, quietly. "A splendid man, as I remember him. He always disliked to hear folks gossiping unkindly about each other. I've seen him, when they began it, get on his feet, just like a cow grazing and gradually working toward a hole in the fence, and before any one knew it he'd be out of the room, so's he couldn't hear 'em."

"He talked to me about it. 'Henry,' he'd say, 'when you're of age never say anything about a man if you can't say good of him, and always vote the straight party ticket.'"

"But you don't vote that way."

"Well, sir," said Henry, "you see my father said the straight party ticket; and when I came along to vote, the pesky thing had got so crooked that I don't believe he'd have recognized it."

RAW ECZEMA ON HANDS

"I had eczema on my hands for ten years. I had three good doctors but none of them did any good. I then used one box of Cuticura Ointment and three bottles of Cuticura Resolvent and was completely cured. My hands were raw all over, inside and out, and the eczema was spreading all over my body and limbs. Before I had used one bottle, together with the Cuticura Ointment, my sores were nearly healed over, and by the time I had used the third bottle, I was entirely well. To any one who has any skin or blood disease I would honestly advise them to fool with nothing else, but get Cuticura and get well. My hands have never given me the least bit of trouble up to now.

"My daughter's hands this summer became perfectly raw with eczema. She could get nothing that would do them any good until she tried Cuticura. She used Cuticura Resolvent and Cuticura Ointment and in two weeks they were entirely cured. I have used Cuticura for other members of my family and it always proved successful. Mrs. M. E. Fallin, Speers Ferry, Va., Oct. 19, 1909."

The Wrong Sort.

An old Irish peasant was one Sunday sitting in front of his cottage puffing away furiously at his pipe.

Match after match he lighted, pulling hard at the pipe the while, until at last the ground all round his feet was strewn with struck matches.

"Come in to your dinner, Patsy," at length called out his wife.

"Faith, and Oi will in a minute, Biddy," said he. "Molke Mulrooney has been a-telling me that if Oi smoked a bit av glass Oi cud see the shots on the sun. Oi don't know whether Molke's been a-fooling me or whether Oi've got hold av the wrong kind of glass."—Scraps.

Fine School.

"Your daughter should attend my school of education."

"She shan't! She's attended one, and she's positively—"

"Ah, but I teach a new system. When my pupils are asked to recite they are trained to refuse."

Life is two-thirds bluff, law is three-fourths tyranny, piety is nine-tenths pretense. Be genuine and poor if you would die respected.

A Poor Weak Woman

As she is termed, will endure bravely and patiently agonies which a strong man would give way under. The fact is women are more patient than they ought to be under such troubles.

Every woman ought to know that she may obtain the most experienced medical advice free of charge and in absolute confidence and privacy by writing to the World's Dispensary Medical Association, R. V. Pierce, M. D., President, Buffalo, N. Y. Dr. Pierce has been chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., for many years and has had a wider practical experience in the treatment of women's diseases than any other physician in this country. His medicines are world-famous for their astonishing efficacy.

The most perfect remedy ever devised for weak and delicate women is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

IT MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

The many and varied symptoms of women's peculiar ailments are fully set forth in Plain English in the People's Medical Adviser (1008 pages), a newly revised and up-to-date edition of which, cloth-bound, will be mailed free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Address as above.

History Cleared Up.

The third grade was "having history." Forty youngsters were making guesses about the life and character of the Father of His Country, when the teacher propounded a question that stupified them all.

"Why did Washington cross the Delaware?"

Why, indeed? Not a child could think of anything but the answer to the famous chicken problem: "To get on the other side," and, of course, that wouldn't do. Then little Annie's hand shot into the air. Little Annie crossed the Delaware every summer herself, hence the bright idea.

"Well, Annie?"

"Because he wanted to get to Atlantic City."—Philadelphia Times.

THE BEST OF ITS KIND

Is always advertised, in fact it only pays to advertise good things. When you see an article advertised in this paper year after year you can be absolutely certain that there is merit to it because the continued sale of any article depends upon merit and to keep on advertising one must keep on selling. All good things have imitators, but imitations are not advertised. They have no reputation to sustain, they never expect to have any permanent sale and your dealer would never sell them if he studied your interests. Sixteen years ago Allen's Foot-Ease, the antiseptic powder for the feet, was first sold, and through newspaper advertising and through people telling each other what a good thing it was for tired and aching feet it has now a permanent sale, and nearly 200 so-called foot powders have been put on the market with the hope of profiting by the reputation which has been built up for Allen's Foot-Ease. When you ask for an article advertised in these papers see that you get it. Avoid substitutes.

"Mr. Jones," said the senior partner in the wholesale dry goods house to the drummer who stood before him in the private office, "you have been with us for the past ten years."

"Yes, sir."
"And you ought to know the rules of the house. One of them is that no man of ours shall take a side line."

"But I have none, sir."
"But you have lately got married."

"Yes; but can you call that a side line, Mr. Jones?"
"Technically, it may not be."

"You needn't fear that having a wife is going to bring me in off a trip any sooner."

"Oh, I don't. It is the fear that having a wife at home you'll want to stay out on the road altogether!"

"No, sir," answered the nurse. "I considered the patient in danger as long as the doctor continued his visits."

A COOL PROPOSITION

And a Sure One.

The Body Does Not Feel Heat Unpleasantly if it has Proper Food.

Grape-Nuts

People can live in a temperature which feels from ten to twenty degrees cooler than their neighbors enjoy, by regulating the diet.

The plan is to avoid meat entirely for breakfast; use a goodly allowance of fruit, either fresh or cooked. Then follow with a saucer containing about four heaping teaspoonfuls of Grape-Nuts, treated with a little rich cream. Add to this about two slices of crisp toast with a meager amount of butter, and one cup of well-made Postum.

By this selection of food the bodily energy is preserved, while the hot, carbonaceous foods have been left out. The result is a very marked difference in the temperature of the body, and to this comfortable condition is added the certainty of ease and perfect digestion, for the food being partially pre-digested is quickly assimilated by the digestive machinery.

Experience and experiment in food, and its application to the human body has brought out these facts. They can be made use of and add materially to the comfort of the user.

MAKES IT EASY TO PILOT AEROPLANE

Paris.—Captain Marconnet, one of the French army officers who is doing much to advance the science of aviation, has recently invented a device which enables a passenger on an aeroplane to guide the pilot, despite the difficulty ordinarily of the latter hearing anything that is said while the machine is making a rapid flight. It is a microphone, the mouth piece used by the passenger being attached to the flap of the pilot's cap, and the mouthpiece for the pilot being placed on his left shoulder.

MUSIC CHARMS COW

Gives More Milk While Orchestra Plays Classical Pieces.

Lake Bluff Dairy Woman Tests Theory of Michigan Farmer and Finds Waltzes Are Most Soothing—Don't Like Ragtime.

Chicago.—Sad-eyed cows on the farm of Mrs. Scott Durand in Lake Bluff the other day lost their remorseful feelings, became happy-faced, and gave more milk than they had been accustomed to, because the farm hands milked the 61 Jerseys and Holsteins to the sweet strains of the "Blue Danube" waltz and other selections rendered by an orchestra.

Music-impregnated milk is a fact and not a theory, according to the North Shore society woman, who watched the cows being milked while nine musicians wafted sweet music over the farm.

Milk taken from the "bossies," while the orchestra sent forth soothing music, tasted better and had a more happy effect upon the drinkers than the milk served which had not been "music impregnated," according to those who went through the test.

The unique test was made to prove the assertion of a Michigan farmer that cows give more milk while music is being rendered.

The music calmed the nerves of the cows and their udders let down all the milk in them.

Soon after the milking had been finished, Mrs. Durand, who is known as the "Queen of Hostesses," served the liquid to the musicians.

"This experiment has been a perfect revelation to me," said Mrs. Durand after Helen, Clarice, Flossie and No. 52, the first four cows, had been milked to the music of the orchestra.

Throwing her arms around Helen Mrs. Durand declared that she had never seen her cows stand so still and contentedly before.

"That's perfectly lovely! Look at their eyes! The cows want more music," she pleaded.

Then the orchestra shifted from a classical selection to ragtime music. Suddenly the cows grew restive.

"Horrors," declared Mrs. Durand when the orchestra began to play the Cubanola Glide. "Stop it, my cows are cultured and abhor ragtime music as much as they do swearing."

Then the musicians started up a selection from "Tosca," "I Live for Love and Music," and to the amazement of Mrs. Durand and the milkers, the cows became quiet and contented again.

"Do you know I feel that my cows are the mothers of the hundreds of babies fed on Crab Tree farm milk," said the society leader, who had invited the orchestra out to her farm to give a practical demonstration to prove if cows give more milk to the tunes of sweet music than otherwise.

Mrs. Durand has been convinced of this fact and intends to equip her barn with several phonographs.

Stop Killing of Elephants

Friends of Pachyderm in England and France Urge Reserves to Halt Extinction.

London.—Whether it be the outcome of Mr. Roosevelt's recent hunting trip in Africa or not, a meeting held by the French society known as "The Friends of the Elephant," at which it was decided to approach the French government with the object of securing better reserves for elephants in Africa, has had the effect of reviving some interest in the same matter among members of the sister society in London.

Lieut. Col. John Henry Patterson, one of the most active members of the society, said in an interview: "In the United Kingdom this question has been ably and zealously dealt with by the Society for the Preservation of the Wild Fauna of the Empire."

CLUB TO MAKE NEWSIES GOOD

Omaha Business Men Form Organization to Stop Swearing and Tobacco Using.

Omaha, Neb.—How to keep the 400 newsboys of this city from shooting craps, swearing, smoking and forgetting to wash their hands and faces at proper intervals is a problem that has agitated the members of the Children's Home society. At last it is believed that a solution has been reached.

An organization for the welfare of the newsboys started eight years ago fell through, and since then the youngsters have been permitted to grow up and run wild. Now they are to be taken in hand and their condition bettered.

Probation Officer Bernstein has interested a number of business men of the city and a club has been organized, with E. W. Dickinson, capitalist; Rome Miller, proprietor of the largest hotel in the city; J. A. Cudahy, a packer; Rev. Father Burns, a pastor, who has always interested himself in boys, and Judge Sutton of the juvenile court as trustees.

The committee having immediate charge of the welfare of the boys is made up of Joe Carroll, Tony Costanzo, Tony Monico and Sam Kalin, all of them were once newsboys, but now are prosperous business men.

The following rules have been adopted by the committee to govern the actions of the boys:

No smoking, chewing, gambling or jumping on street cars.
Must have clean faces and hands.
No going into saloons.
Must be loyal to one another.
Must be off the streets at eight o'clock at night unless an extra is out.
No boy under eight years of age shall sell papers.

Every boy under sixteen years of age shall attend one session of school daily.

No foul or profane language.

A large room has been rented near the business portion of the city. It has been equipped with a small library, tables on which games of many kinds can be played, tubs and shower baths.

The club will be self-governed and officered by the boys, but over its affairs the committee of business men will have general supervision.

It will cost the boys nothing to join the club. Each member is given a numbered badge for identification and as a certificate of character. If a complaint is filed against any boy, or if a boy becomes troublesome, a report is made to the juvenile court, when Judge Sutton will investigate and take the necessary action.

Wealthy Hungarian Land Owner Fears Robbery if He Appears to Be Prosperous.

New York.—Wearing the garb of a tramp to give the impression that he is a poor man, Lajos Berrar, one of the wealthiest land owners of eastern Hungary, arrived here the other day on the last lap of a trip around the world. Although over sixty-five years old, Mr. Berrar has never been absent from his frontier home before, and he entertains the idea that America is filled with brigands, that only unceasing vigilance and the avoidance of external signs of prosperity can save him from being robbed before he gets back to Tiszafehered, his native town.

When he registered at a local hotel with his two companions, both husky six-footers, he gave orders that he was not to be approached by any strangers.

One of the two huskies is a nephew of the aged traveler, Michael Berrar, professor of chemistry in a school at Budapest. His other companion is an Italian who acts as interpreter. This man said, explaining the older Mr. Berrar's eccentric garb and customs:

"Life on the frontier of Hungary is very primitive, as it lies next to the outposts of Turkey, and the folks there have strange ideas about the other parts of the world. Mr. Berrar has feared all along that if he dressed in style he would be robbed. We have repeatedly begged him to buy new clothing and then visit the barber, but he clings to his old clothes and ways, asserting that no one would rob a man who did not look prosperous. He has heard strange tales of robberies in America."

Dead Man Runs Automobile.

Portland, Me.—A dead man was the only occupant of a moving automobile for a short time the other day. While riding alone D. Winslow Hawkes, one of the best-known educators in Maine, died of heart trouble. His automobile ran along the curbing and stopped without being overturned.

Rhode Island Farmer Hits Upon Novel Scheme to Bake Beans While Wife Is in Town.

Westerly, R. I.—A drummer who invaded the rural districts here a few days ago with the latest brand of fireless cooker for the economy and comfort of the over-worked farmer's wife has left town disgusted, with not a sale to his credit. He found the natives equipped with cookers which, they assert, are far ahead of so-called up-to-date ones.

Walter Russell Boss, a farmer on the post road, is the Moses of the kitchen. A few weeks ago his wife went to town to spend the day. Walter foraged his own breakfast and enough for the help. It was Saturday, and his better-half had left instructions to put the big pot of beans in early and let them bake all day. Walter had some hoeing to do and figured he couldn't waste a day indoors, and he cudged his Yankee brain for an idea.

It came.
He took the pot of beans with the big chunk of pork floating on top out into the woodroom where the incubator stood. Turning up the lamp, he took off the weight on the thermostat and shoved in the pot of beans. Shouldering his hoe, he set out for the field. When his wife returned from town she found the fire out in the kitchen stove and no beans in sight. She prepared a cold supper and a warm welcome for Walter.

Walter hastened to the woodroom, with the scolding wife at his heels. From the incubator he took a steaming hot pot of beans, browned and savory and done to a turn. Afterward he took out a dozen chickens, which the extreme heat had hatched and sub-

A CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Will Be Nominated by Fourth District

Republicans at North Vernon

Saturday.

THREE OTHER CONVENTIONS

Big Time Expected.—Jackson County

Republicans Will Go.—Delegates

Selected Today.

Many Republicans from Jackson county expect to go to North Vernon tomorrow to attend the congressional convention. Big delegations from all of the counties in the district are expected to be present and as three other conventions are to be held, it will be a rally day for the party.

North Vernon Republicans are preparing for a cordial reception for the visitors.

The North Vernon Republican says, The four conventions to be held in this city Saturday promises to be one of the biggest days of the season for the Republicans. Besides the nearly 400 delegates to be called here for these conventions it is expected that twice that number of other interested citizens will be here and it has just been announced that four of the Republican candidates for state office will be present, viz: Otis E. Gulby, candidate for Secretary of State; Jonce Monahan, candidate for State Treasurer; Robert M. Miller and O. H. Montgomery, candidates for Judge will be here.

The Congressional, Joint Representative and Judicial conventions will probably be held in the forenoon and the County conventions will be held in the afternoon.

These conventions are all open to the public and regardless of politics the citizens of the county and elsewhere will be welcome to attend. Come and bring your wives. There is no reason why the ladies should not at least have the pleasure of looking on the proceedings.

Let the Republicans of the county make a special effort to be here and let's give the visitors from the nine other counties in the district a rousing reception.

Delegates are being selected in Jackson county this afternoon to the congressional, judicial and county conventions. The date for the judicial convention has not yet been named.

At hour of going to press the following reports had been received:

Redding township delegates:

Congressional—George Story.

Judicial—Wesley Covert.

County delegates—Henry Smith, A. M. Brown, George Short, Ernest May, Adam Fox, Wesley Covert. Alternates—Ben Fox, Clyde Foster, Ora Brown, Henry Werning, George Story.

In Brownstown township the following delegates were elected:

Congressional—Elmer Brown. Alternate, Elmer Shepard.

Judicial—Wm. Endebrook. Alternate, James Balsley.

County Delegates.—Isaac Persinger, Joseph Goss, Charles Brock, Oren Miller, Charles Robertson, Jas. Balsley, Harry Cribb, Elmer Shepard, Harry Shields and James Keach.

In Vernon township Frank Brady was elected as delegate to the Congressional convention and J. A. Cox to the judicial convention.

A party of seven New Yorkers arrived in Seymour from Indianapolis Thursday afternoon in a big Simplex touring car. In the party were Mrs. B. M. Kraehl, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wood, Mrs. A. W. Milne and Miss J. Hutton. They started their tour from New York and came west through Buffalo and along the lake shore. From Chicago they started south. They went from Seymour to Louisville and expected to go as far south as Savannah and Georgia. From there they will start on their return trip.

John Wilson, a brakeman on the B. & O. S-W. suffered a slight injury Thursday evening in the railroad yards. He was attempting to close a switch when he caught his foot in the frog. His shoe was torn from his foot and his ankle was bruised. He will not be able to return to work for several days.

The case of the state of Indiana vs Henry Simpson will be tried Monday. In this case Mary A. Lloyd is the prosecuting witness from whom the defendant is charged with stealing a purse containing a small amount of money. A. C. Branaman is the attorney for the defendant.

Mrs. Manley Wigginton and little daughter, Iris, went to St. Louis last evening for future residence. Mr. Wigginton has secured an excellent position with the Terminal Railroad Company in that city and has been there for several weeks.

Charles Heitman who was injured at the Shields high school building a few days ago by a heavy timber striking his side and fracturing five ribs, has recovered sufficiently to walk about.

The circuit court adjourned Thursday has been very busy, as the docket has been called, issues made and the majority of the cases set for trial.

DELAYED FIRE ALARM

Telephone Exchange Failed To Answer Call for Twelve Minutes.

The board of public safety, in special session Thursday evening heard a complaint regarding the failure of the Mutual Telephone exchange to answer a call promptly when an effort was being made to notify the fire department of the Schaefer Bakery fire. One of the members of the board said he knew that three attempts were made to get the exchange before the alarm was sent in.

City clerk John Hauenschield was instructed to take the matter up with the telephone company and ascertain where the trouble was located. A new contract is soon to be made with the company for the operation of the Gamewell system and is said that a higher price will be asked than that paid to the Seymour Home Company. The board was of the opinion that the Mutual Company agreed to take over the Gamewell system and operate it for the same amount as was paid to the Home Company. Several other complaints were made regarding the service of the company with reference to the fire department and the matter will be given attention at once.

INDIANA IN LINE WITH OLD PARTY

Republican Leaders Are Confident of Success in Coming Election.

DEMOCRATS STOP BOASTING

Little Probability That the Voters Will Choose John Worth Kern as Successor to Senator Beveridge—Leaders in Line.

Indianapolis, Ind.—Just prior to his departure for Petoskey, Michigan, Governor Marshall had a conference with the Hon. John Worth Kern, Democratic nominee for the United States Senate, and the Hon. John E. Lamb of Terre Haute, one of the well-known members of the Democratic party.

It will be recalled that not long ago Lamb himself was an aspirant for the United States Senate. He lined up with Governor Marshall when the latter sought to have the Democratic convention make the senatorial nomination. At that time Lamb created a good deal of amusement among politicians generally by posing as a vigorous foe of machine politics. It is a well-known fact that for many years Lamb has had one of the strongest machines of any man in Indiana. He has been credited with controlling politics in Terre Haute and with having a machine that was almost invincible. However, when the time came to make an attack on that noted Democratic leader, Tom Taggart, Lamb suddenly experienced a change of faith. He became an anti-machine man then without destroying his own machine at Terre Haute. All of these facts have something to do with the conference that Lamb, Kern and Marshall held.

After it was all over, Mr. Lamb stated to a newspaper man here that they had been talking politics and that they had been "fixing" Senator Beveridge. "Fixing" probably is a very good word under the circumstances, in view of the methods some of these Democrats have employed in past years.

In the Republican state convention last April Senator Beveridge in his keynote speech warned the masses that certain powerful influences would be at work against the Republican party in the present campaign. He told the people that these interests would not hesitate to turn loose an enormous fund to carry out their purposes. In the same warning he declared that the Republicans will have to combat these interests without money, but with the firm conviction that they are in the right and that the right will win if every man puts his shoulder to the wheel and does his part.

It is rather significant that the first open talk about "fixing" Senator Beveridge should come from men high in the councils of the Democratic party. While it may be true that these merely talked Democratic politics without any suggestion of co-operation with the interests that are known to be opposed to Senator Beveridge, it is not strange that the impression was created that there might be some attempt at the old-fashioned method of "fixing" in which the non-partisan political schemes would be put into play.

Democrats Foresee Defeat.

It is known that the Democratic leaders, in spite of the extravagant claims they have been making during the last six months, are by no means certain of their ground. They have been depending on a split in the Republican party to bring about the election of Mr. Kern and the defeat of Senator Beveridge. The Democratic leaders have been very active in circulating stories that the Republicans were divided on the tariff, on the temperance question and that the followers of Senator Beveridge, former Vice-President Fairbanks and former Senator Hemenway, never would be able to work together in the coming campaign. As a matter of fact, any one in politics knows that if these stories were true it would be difficult for the Republicans to win even with their normal plurality of from thirty to forty thousand.

However, things have developed recently which show the utter absurdity of these claims of the Democratic leaders. For instance, James P. Goodrich, former chairman of the Republican State committee, who has been known for years as a staunch Fairbanks supporter, has volunteered his services to State Chairman Lee. It is conceded that there is no man within the Republican party in Indiana who stands higher with the party workers generally and with the business element than does Mr. Goodrich. During the ten years he was chairman of the State Committee he conducted the organization on a straight out business basis, at no time soliciting or accepting a contribution from any corporation. This policy has been taken up by Chairman Lee and his associates, and it may be stated as a positive fact that as far as the Republican organization is concerned, it is absolutely free from corporate influence.

Mr. Goodrich has been counted upon by the Democrats to help defeat Senator Beveridge. They have gone on the theory that because Senator Beveridge and Mr. Goodrich have not always agreed on matters of organization, that the latter would use his large following to bring about the downfall of the former. Mr. Goodrich says, however, that he has written Chairman Lee telling him that he will visit any counties the latter may name and that he will do everything he can to organize them for the success of the State and legislative tickets.

Mean to Work for Party.

Not only has Mr. Goodrich offered his services, but men like Auditor of State Billheimer and Secretary of State Sims, who have been very active in politics for a number of years, have told Chairman Lee that he can count on them to the extent of their ability.

At a general meeting held at the Republican headquarters every element of the party was well represented, and it was apparent from the statements made then that harmony exists and that the rival leaders are going to work together for the next three months. Organization meetings are now being held in every county in the state, and Chairman Lee is being actively assisted by members of the so-called Fairbanks-Hemenway faction. These facts are very significant, as they indicate that the Republicans have come together, which means ordinarily that the party ought to win by a handsome majority.

In view of what has taken place during the last few days the Democratic leaders are up in the air, and not without cause. The split in the Republican party on which they have been counting has not materialized according to their wishes, and from now on they realize that they will have to depend on their own followers for their support. Mr. Kern has come home from his summer vacation much earlier than he expected, which is regarded as an indication that he is not as comfortable on the political situation as he was some time ago. When he left here the first time it was understood that he would not return until the first of September. Everything looked so rosy then to the Democrats that they thought that about all they would have to do would be to open the campaign with a few speeches and then count the votes. Things have changed very rapidly, and now it is becoming evident that the Democrats, instead of being the aggressors, are likely to be on the defensive during the contest.

Chairman Lee says that the reports that he is receiving are very encouraging. In fact, there is a general improvement noted all along the line. Elmer E. Hastings, of Washington, Indiana, who is president of the Lincoln league, has been getting some good reports from district and county managers. He says that many inquiries are being received regarding the organization of Republican clubs. The league will have headquarters at the State committee rooms, and about September 1 will begin the organization of clubs in many counties.

College Clubs for Beveridge.

One of the interesting sidelights of the campaign is the fact that many college boys have written Mr. Hastings regarding the organization of clubs. This is taken as an indication that the young men of the state are very friendly to Senator Beveridge and to the Republican party generally. College Beveridge clubs are to be organized at many institutions, and the boys are showing a great degree of enthusiasm that is expected to have a very considerable influence upon the election. Mr. Hastings says that already a number of clubs have been organized. In some of the Northern Indiana counties there are strong Beveridge clubs with a membership of several hundred each. It is very likely that most of the clubs will be known as Beveridge clubs, because this is the Senator's year in Indiana politics.

Chairman Lee has placed in the hands of Chairman Wallace of the Indianapolis Republican committee all of the arrangements for Roosevelt day here on October 13. They have decided that it will be better to have a day-time meeting than at night, as originally intended. It is very likely that at least fifty thousand people will come to Indianapolis to participate in the celebration. When Colonel Roosevelt spoke here three years ago at the unveiling of the Lawton monument thousands of people fought with the police for hours to get near enough to hear him. The meeting was the largest that any public man ever addressed in Indiana.

Chairman Wallace says that the coming of Colonel Roosevelt will mean several thousand votes for the Republican ticket in this county, owing to the great popularity of Roosevelt with the laboring men. He believes that Roosevelt's speech will make this county solidly Republican, which means the election of nine members of the legislature and which will make the re-election of Senator Beveridge certain. Conditions in this county are improving very rapidly, and Republicans are now very hopeful of carrying it by their old-time majority.

Discharged Without Notice

By Henry Crider Evans

The slow, drizzling rain which had steadily fallen since the early part of the afternoon and which threatened to continue to fall during the rest of the evening, was not more dismal and dreary than the heart of the girl who shrank back in the corner seat of the elevated train, gazing through the clouded window panes with dull, unseeing eyes.

She was dressed in a shabby black dress and jacket; her shoes were worn and her hat had the look of being made and remade from one dated many years before.

Mollie Orth had left home that morning with but 15 cents in her purse, her hopes raised high, and a feeling in her heart that she would succeed this time. She smiled at the conductor as she handed him her fare, smiled at the little girl sitting in the seat across from her tenderly hugging a bedraggled doll in her arms; indeed, smiled at every one she saw, for Mollie was decidedly an optimist, and so surely as failure and worry and heartache laid her spirits low, just so surely would they rise again with the beginning of a new day.

All morning she wandered down street after street, vainly seeking employment. After awhile the smile left her lips and the song died out of her heart. Gradually, her limbs grew more and more tired, until at last her feet refused to carry her farther and, entering the waiting room of a large department store, she sank into a chair and wearily closed her eyes.

The matron, a neatly-dressed woman with a kind, motherly face, glanced at the girl with understanding and sympathy in her eyes. The story was so evident and such an old one! "Wouldn't you care to glance over this paper while you are resting?" asked the matron, handing her a newspaper with a smile that conveyed encouragement and sympathy to the girl's heart. Mollie grasped it eagerly, murmuring her thanks. As the woman expected, she turned at once to the "help wanted" page and hastily scanned its columns.

There was but one ad. which she could answer, but even this was a ray of hope which she eagerly seized upon. It was raining when she reached the street, but although she had no umbrella she started all undaunted for the address given in the paper.

It was ten long blocks from the store which she had left and she was thoroughly drenched by the time she reached her destination. Approaching the office boy she inquired for the manager, and was pointed out a large, heavily-built man seated behind a huge desk, his head bent over a heap of papers.

"Well, what can I do for you?" he asked sharply as Mollie stood patiently awaiting his attention.

The girl timidly stated her errand, answering his numerous questions with straightforward honesty.

"Well," he said, at length, "you don't look overstrong, but guess you'll do. We expect good work from our people, and if we can't get it out of them we don't keep 'em—that's all. Where are your references?"

"I haven't any," began Mollie, tremulously. "I never thought to ask for any at the last place I worked in."

The man scowled as he waved her aside with a fat, pudgy hand. "No go, no go. No reference, no job. Why didn't you say so right away instead of wasting all my time?"

"Oh, cried Mollie, in dismay. "Only try me, sir! I will work hard, you will see how fast my fingers can fly. Please, please give me just a trial! I need the money so badly."

The man turned resolutely to his desk. "Can't do it, I tell you. We don't do business that way."

Mollie walked blindly out of the office and was once more on the street. Feeling faint she determined to spend half of her last dime for a cup of coffee. She entered a cozy little restaurant, following the usher to a table near the end of the room.

Mollie paused long over her coffee, drinking in its sweet fragrance and feeling a delicious sense of comfort as the strong liquid sent a flush of warmth through her body. She rose regretfully when her cup was empty, and made for the cashier's desk, which was overcrowded, the people standing in line to pay for their checks and the cashier herself nervous and hurried.

Mollie laid her check, which called for five cents, upon the desk, together with her solitary dime, and was given five brand-new pennies in change. How bright they looked and how they shone, almost as if they were made of gold, she thought, as she walked slowly down the street. Why, one was different from the rest! Surely it was not a common penny! Hastily turning it over in her hand, she saw that she was holding, not a penny, but a $10 gold piece!

"Take it back! It isn't yours, and it will be dishonest to keep it," whispered a voice which seemed so real that she started and glanced apprehensively over her shoulder. What a struggle she had to put that voice in the background. This meant bread and meat to her, food for the little sisters at home and peace to the worried mother, whose hair was fast becoming streaked with gray. She could not give it up, she would not! A feeling of fierce exultation possessed her.

Her feet fairly flew up the steps leading to the elevated station, the bit of gold clutched tightly in her hand. The cashier at the turnstile glanced up in surprise as Mollie's trembling fingers dropped the piece of money before her.

"Have you no smaller change than this?" she asked, then as Mollie nodded her head, she carefully counted out the change.

How many times Mollie's resolution weakened and faltered that night! As she met her mother's eager, questioning glance as she entered the door; as she saw the look of blank despair in her eyes as she faltered out her failure, her heart misgave her, and she longed to pour the money into her mother's thin hands, telling her that there was enough for food and clothes, warmth and comfort until she could secure a position. Again, at the supper table, as she helped herself to a dried piece of bread and one small, mealy potato, the temptation to keep the money grew almost too strong to resist.

The next morning found her once more entering the little restaurant. She noticed a new girl in the cashier's place, and her heart sank in shame. She inquired for the manager, and was shown into a little side room to a man bending over a table figuring up accounts. He was about thirty, tall, broad-shouldered, with the kindest brown eyes in the world, she thought. Timidly she handed him the change she had received from the gold piece and told her story. Then all at once she found herself crying softly, as she poured out the whole story of the struggle and temptation she had endured.

"There, there; don't cry any more. It's all over now and you have won a victory to be proud of. Now listen to my proposition. Miss Johnson, our former cashier, has been suffering from extreme nervousness for a long time and was only waiting for the end of the season to give up work entirely until her health was once more restored. The final straw came last night, when she discovered the shortage in her accounts, and she insisted upon making up the loss to us, although we protested strongly against her doing so. Then she left, and we had to place one of our waitresses temporarily in her place. It will give me much pleasure to return this money to her, and also to offer you her position. We will give you $10 a week to start. Will you take it?"

Mollie mutely nodded her head, her eyes shining with happiness. Ten dollars a week! That was more than she had ever earned before. Eager to prove her gratitude, she bent all her energy to her work, schooling herself to become more rapid and accurate each day.

Often, looking up from her work, she would find Mr. Asher, the manager and owner of the restaurant, watching her with a look in his brown eyes which she could not understand. She could always feel his presence, knew when he entered the room and when he left, a feeling for which she could not account.

On evening, after the last customer had departed, and the doors were closed for the day, as she was making out her report, he came over and stood beside her desk.

"Miss Orth, you have been with us two years now, haven't you?" he asked.

Mollie replied in the affirmative. "You are receiving a salary of $15 a week now, are you not?" he asked again, and again Mollie nodded.

"Well, Miss Orth," he began hesitatingly, "we feel that you are worth more than we are paying you, although we cannot afford to raise your salary any higher, therefore I am going to ask you to resign your position."

Mollie gasped and stared at him with eyes filled with surprise and dismay. Asked to resign her position! What could she have done to deserve it? Her accounts always balanced evenly; she had supposed her work was giving complete satisfaction, and now, without warning, she was to be discharged.

"Don't feel so badly over it, Miss Orth. I am going to offer you another position, one which I trust you will not refuse. It is that of housekeeper to a lonely, solitary bachelor. Miss Orth, will you be my wife?"

Mollie gazed at him and then, just as she had done two years before, when he had offered her the position, she laid her head down upon her arms and burst into tears.

"Mollie! Little girl, don't you care? If you only knew how I have hoped and prayed that you did. Would you rather keep your position here, and have me give up my 'castle in Spain,' and go away. For go away I must, if you refuse me. I could not bear to stay here, to be near you day after day, and know that my hopes could never be realized! Tell me, Mollie, which shall it be? Don't cry any more, little girl, look up and tell me."

Mollie did look up, and the tears in her eyes only made them look brighter with joy and happiness shining through them as the sun behind a cloud.

"Oh, you ask me if I will marry you!" she cried. "If you only knew, if you only knew!"

The words, few as they were, were sufficient, for her eyes told the rest.

A BAD THING TO NEGLECT.

Don't neglect the kidneys when you notice lack of control over the secretions. Passages become too frequent or scanty; urine is discolored and sediment appears. No medicine for such troubles like Doan's Kidney Pills. They quickly remove kidney disorders.

A. Dashem, 241 N. Grant St., Wooster, O., says: "The doctors diagnosed my case as gravel, but my agony increased under their treatment, and I soon became too weak to stand alone. I had given up all hope of living more than a few weeks at the best. I was strongly urged to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after twelve days' use, I passed two gravel stones. After that, I improved rapidly until cured. Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y."

Seeking Comfort.

"I've got a long way to go and I'm not used to travel," said the applicant at the railway ticket office. "I want to be just as comfortable as I can, regardless of expense."

"Parlor car?"

"No. I don't care for parlor fixtures."

"Sleeper?"

"No. I want to stay awake and watch the scenery."

"Then what do you want?"

"Well, if it wouldn't be too much trouble, I wish you'd put me up in one of these refrigerator cars I've read so much about."

An Unnecessary System.

"You ought to have a burglar alarm system in your house," said the electrical supply agent, "so that you will be awakened if a burglar raises one of the windows or opens a door at night."

"No burglar can get in here while we are peacefully sleeping," replied Mr. Newpop. "We are wearing our baby."

Reformation.

"You say you are a reformer?"
"Yep," replied the local boss; "of the deepest dye."

"But you were not always so."
"No. The reformers reformed our town last year and I want to reform it back again."

Many a girl who refuses to stay single also refuses to stay married.

VEILS FOR SUMMER

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY.

The veil for summer is the airiest of creations, falling about the brim of hats and over faces and floating free to the summer winds. Dots, set on, have been shown less favor than lace patterns on a net ground or large meshed nets with figures woven in.

Those veils which are not of the floating kind are of the latter variety and are worn with wide-brimmed hats and drawn to the back and under the collar. It requires some care to pin and adjust them correctly, and getting under them is a matter that consumes time. They are very neat in appearance, however, and very becoming. Hence their wearers are willing to put in the necessary time to adjust and readjust them.

The lace veils show light pattern having a scroll border and butterflies, birds or even tiny chandeliers woven in. The heavy figures proved too unbecoming to meet with anything like general favor. They were, in fact, disfiguring. Black chantilly and white wash nets with scroll borders are the most popular of floating veils, and fancy large-meshed nets hold first place in the others.

The net veils just described have been adopted for mourning wear as cooler than the usual mourning fabrics, for those people who must be out a great deal. They are bordered with bands of crape or with silk grenadine or other mourning fabric. Rows of grosgrain ribbon, graduated in width or otherwise, are also used as a border finish. Veils of this kind hang straight from the hat brim and reach below the bust line.

A wide-brimmed sailor for general wear, trimmed with a band and adorned with a white net veil is about as satisfactory as any hat can be.

PARISIAN MODEL

This model is of batiste made with tucks and finished in front with a band of embroidery and a plaited frill of the batiste.

The epaulets and deep cuffs are also tucked and the rather full sleeves are encircled with bands of the embroidery.

Needlework for Gifts.

Pretty work to keep on hand for summer and to get ready for the next gift occasion is the shirtwaist frill of sheer handkerchief linen and its buttons made to match.

The scalloped edge of a graduated strip for the frill is done in china-blue embroidery cotton and a set of six buttons for the front box plait of the shirtwaist completes the gift.

Cover button molds with china-blue linen worked with white cotton. These two, mounted upon tissue paper (after the frill is pressed into plaits) and boxed, make a most attractive little gift and represent hours well spent.

Red Leather Belts.

A pretty and odd finish is given to the belt of many a Russian blouse by a touch of red leather. Sometimes it is just an oblong piece of leather sewed on the belt, at the back where the blouse is fastened to coat. Sometimes patches of leather are sewed on the front where the belt fastens. While these may be used on a coat of any color with which red may be combined, it is particularly effective on blouses of black and white shepherd's checks.

BLOUSES THAT ARE POPULAR

Very Attractive and Becoming Designs Are Being Introduced This Season.

Overblouse effects are extremely popular this summer, and some very attractive and becoming designs of this order are being introduced. The waist may, of course, be worn with any preferred skirt of harmonizing design, either attached in semi-princess style or adjusted separately.

A French lining forms the basis of many of the waists, serving as a foundation for the underbody, which will prove the most effective if made of allover lace, net or tucking, the standing color being of the same material. The waist proper is tucked from both shoulder seams in front and back, the front tucks terminating either at bust depth or at the waistline as preferred. At the neck edge it is cut in circular fashion, with a deeply pointed opening at the center front.

The sleeve caps may be made with or without an opening to correspond. Two sleeve models are given for the underbody. The one-seam fitted sleeves may be made in full or shorter length while the puff sleeves are in elbow length only.

The present season is very prolific in pretty fabrics that would be entirely appropriate for the purpose. Silk, cashmere, albatross, messaline, shantung, foulard and chiffon pongee are advantageously used.

Hats for Young Girls.

Many flounced hats are being worn by young girls, the materials being lace or plaited chiffon over lace. The forms these hats take are extremely diversified, some of them being tall, inverted pot shapes, with seven or eight inch lace flounces draped from the top of the high crown and falling an inch or more below the brim all round. Festoons of baby rosebuds not larger in diameter than half an inch are used around the tops of the crowns of such lace hats; or a single tinted gardenia with foliage is placed at the left side of the front.—Harper's Bazar.

Tip on Scalp Massage.

A skillful doctor of the scalp says she gets best results for the hair by working freely on the muscles that run down the neck at each side just under the ears. These connect closely with the blood vessels in the scalp and blood is forced up into healthy life.

When electricity is used women who can stand little of it on the head can have it applied through tips of fingers on these neck muscles.

PLAN THE KITCHEN

ITS ARRANGEMENT A MATTER OF UTMOST IMPORTANCE.

Makes All the Difference in the World to the Housewife Who Manages to Get Along Without Servants.

The internal arrangements of a house have a great deal to do with the comfort of living without servants. So much did we feel this to be the case that we determined to build our own cottage when we settled to adopt this mode of life. In so many houses the inconvenient position of staircases, the length of passages, the relative position of one room to another, leads to far more work than there really should be any need for. The same may be said of badly designed fireplaces, awkward arrangements for washing and bathing, and of the many other details with which work is connected in daily life.

In arranging the rooms downstairs the relative position of kitchen, store cupboards, pantry and larder will be the most important consideration. This is where the work is done, and the movements between cooking stove, saucepan shelves, sink, store cupboards and larder should be reduced to as few steps as possible. A study of this just makes all the difference when you do your own work. The larder should face the north, so that it is always cool, and its shelves should be of slate. The cook's table should have store cupboards behind it against a wall up to the ceiling, with shelves 11 inches wide, and with sliding doors in front. Below the table should be cupboards for utensils, pie dishes, basins, molds, cake tins and so on. Close by should be other shelves for saucepans, frying pans, kettles and so forth.

The cooking stove should be placed so that you can walk around it. It should stand upon a tiled hearth, and the walls at back and sides should be tiled. Rails should be fixed at back and sides on which to air linen, which is then kept all out of the way and free from dust. The prettiest way to arrange the cooking stove is to copy the Dutch fashion and have a wooden paneled canopy above it, with a short valance hanging down to the plate rack; on this canopy can be fixed Delft plates, bowls or the pretty little Dutch figures.

Top ventilation should be arranged for above all cooking stoves; heat and fumes are thus carried out of the room at once. Further, the skylight affording this ventilation should be open in more than one direction; then whichever way the wind is blowing there will always be a lee side and no down draught.

The sink should be freeclay and enameled white inside. It should be rather deep; then it can be used for washing smaller articles at home. Draining boards of whitewash should be placed at either side of the sink, and these should have some semicircular grooves cut in them, not V-shaped; the latter hold water. The sink should be only a step or two from the cooking stove; then saucepans can be rinsed out at once after the dish is cooked. If nothing in a saucepan is allowed to catch fire or burn, or to dry hard, they are no trouble at all to keep perfectly clean and in good order. The long time that saucepans last is one of the most noticeable advantages of living without servants. Saving of expense is effected in many little ways like this, which are difficult to detect in detail, but the effect of which can be easily seen when the quarter's expenditure is analyzed.

Renewing Color of Bricks.

When red bricks of a fireplace get discolored with soot or have white spots on them, rub with a brick polish, the paste for which can be obtained at a brickyard or paint shop.

If this paste cannot be found rub the bricks well with lined oil, giving them all they will absorb. This treatment may be repeated several times if the bricks are much discolored.

Where brick pavements are discolored with moss or green mold, scrub with a strong solution of household ammonia and water, or with washing soda and hot water.

Invalid Cake.

Ingredients: Two ounces of butter, two ounces of sugar, two eggs, three ounces of flour, grated rind of half a lemon, quarter of a teaspoonful of baking powder. Cream the butter and sugar together, beat the eggs, and add eggs and flour alternately. Sift flour into the cake, beat well with a wooden spoon; add the lemon peel and baking powder. Pour the mixture into a cake tin lined with buttered paper and bake in a moderate oven for three-quarters of an hour. This makes a delicious light cake, and is most suitable for invalids.

Curtains for Bungalow.

A most attractive set of curtains for a summer bungalow are of etamine, and have bands of insertion of heavy net set in. On the net are applied most fascinating designs cut from cretonne. The effect is decidedly artistic and unusual as well.

Cold Clam Broth.

Will be found good if thoroughly chilled. Each cup should be served with a spoonful of whipped cream and slightly salt crackers should go with it.

The KITCHEN CABINET

With aching hands and bleeding feet
We dig and heap—lay
some on stone,
We bear the burden and the heat
Of the long day and wish 'twere done,
Not till the hours of light return
All we have built do we discern.

THINGS TO KNOW.

When drying the hair after a shampoo, put on a straw shade hat with the top of the crown cut out. The hair may be drawn through the opening and sunned and dried while you read or work, without any discomfort.

Two uses for a bird cage bracket: Use it for a place to hang your jelly bag when draining jelly. If hot water is wanted and no fire handy, hang a pall or small kettle on the hook and place a lamp under it.

A good cleaner for coat collars, light linings and silk waists is cornmeal wet with gasoline. Lay the garment to be cleaned on the ironing board and sprinkle the meal on a small spot at a time, rubbing with a clean piece of cheese cloth. Have no fire near while using this inflammable stuff.

A cotton or linen parasol may be nicely cleaned by scrubbing with a brush in a tub of soap suds. Rinse and hang to dry, opened.

Clean white straw hats with sulphur wet with cold water to make a paste. Cover the straw with the paste and dry in the sun, when it can be brushed off and the hat is white and clean.

Normandy Cakes.

Take cup cakes a few days old, scoop out the inside, leaving the sides and bottom one-half inch thick. Crumble one-half the fragments in a dish with half a tumblerful of raspberry jelly and a cupful of a rich egg custard. Fill cases, and top with whipped cream.

Cherry Parfait.

Boil two cupfuls of sugar and one cup of water to a thread. Pour over the beaten whites of six eggs, beat until cool. Roll two and a half cupfuls of cherries in powdered sugar. Beat a quart of cream, fold into the egg mixture, add a few drops of almond flavoring; add the cherries and pack in ice and salt.

GO WASH your windows, and instead of longing for some other world, you will discover the wonderful beauties of this.—Trine.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Dry all dish and cleaning cloths in the sun, as sunshine is a great deodorizer.

Sponges in daily use should be scalded occasionally. There is not a better germ collector than a sponge.

A carpenter's brush is handy to brush crumbs from the kitchen table. If one desires to overcome the rustle of a silk petticoat, a pressing with a hot iron will do the work.

A blood stain on woollen can be easily removed if dry starch is first rubbed in to absorb the blood. Then wash in cold water.

To sweeten a dish of any kind, especially slop jars, turn them bottom up on the ground. The earth absorbs the odors.

To set blue of any shade soak in eight quarts of water, to which has been added an ounce of sugar of lead. Dry well before washing and ironing.

Add a tablespoonful of left-over starch and a tablespoonful of turpentine to the stove blacking before applying it. It will not only polish more easily, but last much longer.

A long-handled pancake turner is an excellent thing to take out small dishes from the oven, as it saves many a burned wrist.

When dressing a chicken dip the hand in coarse salt when removing the internal organs. The salt keeps the hand from slipping.

To those who need to take olive oil as medicine, try taking it in grape juice, which is a blood builder, and the two combined are a great benefit to the health.

A persistent case of diarrhoea was cured by the use of browned flour. Stir the flour in a sauce pan on the range until it is of a golden brown color, not burned. It may be used in a sauce or gravy with a little ginger added, and sugar to make it palatable.

White spots caused by placing hot dishes on the table are difficult to remove. Apply a woolen cloth dipped in alcohol to such places. Rub with a dry cloth and the table will not only be spotless but take a good polish. To clean cut glass vases fill with butter-milk and let stand over night.

Cherry Ice Cream.

Scald one pint of milk, thicken with a tablespoonful of flour blended with a little cold milk. Cook for three-quarters of an hour. Add one and a half cupfuls of sugar beaten with three eggs, slowly, to the hot mixture and cook until thick. When cool add a pint of whipped cream and a cupful of cherries put through a coarse sieve. Freeze at once.

MUST BE HANDLED GENTLY.

Real Lace Easy to Spoil if Proper Methods Are Not Employed in the Washing.

Possessors of real lace are often afraid to trust the cleaning of it to strangers. But it can quite well be done at home if the following hints are borne in mind:

The great thing to remember is that soap should never be rubbed on lace. It ruins the color. Dissolve in warm water enough soap to make a lather. Add a few drops of ammonia, and put the lace in it. Let it stand for ten minutes. Souse it up and down in the suds, and squeeze it gently between the hands. Never rub or wring it, as this is apt to break the threads especially if the lace is very fine.

Next put it into another lot of suds, prepared in the same way, and squeeze it until all the dirt is removed. Rinse it in two lots of clear water.

Genuine old lace should be steeped in warm milk for at least half an hour and then squeezed dry. This gives it the correct yellowish tint.

Baked Fish.

An excellent way of preparing fish and one which you will use often after having once tried is to bake the fish in salt. Take any large fish, as shad, whitefish, etc. After removing scales and drawing, wipe thoroughly and lay back into shape. Line the bottom of a dripping pan with coarse barrel salt, which can be obtained from your butcher if the grocer does not have it, and lay the fish in this without seasoning. Now pour salt over the fish until it is completely covered, patting it into shape with the hands. Put into a hot oven and bake from 40 to 50 minutes, according to the size of the fish. The salt will cake and can readily be broken away, the skin of the fish coming off with it. As a seasoning prepare a white sauce by melting in a saucepan a generous tablespoonful of butter, rubbing into it a tablespoonful of flour and adding gradually a large cupful of rich milk, stirring to keep smooth. Salt and pepper.

Baked Fish With Lemon Sauce.

Choose about a three-pound fish, wash, bone, and fill with dressing made of one-half cupful of bread crumbs, one-half cupful of hot water, one teaspoonful of diced onion, one tablespoonful of butter, and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Rub the fish with salt and bread crumbs, bake 35 minutes, basting three times with one tablespoonful of butter in one cupful of hot water.

Lemon sauce: Two-thirds cupful of butter, yolks of two eggs, one-fourth cupful of lemon juice, one-fourth cupful of hot water, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Cook one-third of the butter, the water, the lemon juice, eggs, and salt in a double boiler; stirring constantly until it becomes a light, thick cream; remove from fire, add the rest of the butter, and stir well. Serve fish on a platter; garnish with slices of lemon and parsley; sauce to each person.

Boiled Custard.

To two cupfuls of cream or very good milk add one tablespoonful of sugar and a little of vanilla. Put this in a saucepan over the fire and allow it to just boil. Then allow it to cool. Beat well four yolks of eggs, and gradually add the cream, having taken out the vanilla. Pour the mixture into a clean saucepan and stir it until it thickens. Pour it in glasses, and keep in a cold place until wanted. This is best made some hours before it is wanted, for it will be noticed that custard made the previous day is much thicker and richer looking than custard just made.

Angel Food Gelatine.

Dissolve, according to directions on box, the contents of three boxes of raspberry jello and set aside to thicken. Make an angel food cake from your favorite recipe. Now take a pan enough larger than the one in which your cake is baked to allow an inch on all sides. When jello has become quite firm put it into the pan to the depth of an inch and place cake on it. Fill the space on all sides and top with jello and set on ice. Cut in slices and serve with whipped cream. The pink and white is very pretty.

Kidneys and Mushrooms.

Skin and slice thinly four sheep's kidneys and season with salt and pepper. Melt in a frying pan one-half ounce of butter, and fry in it a small finely minced onion; then put in the kidneys. Stir them quickly, and sprinkle over a dessertspoonful of flour. When slightly browned add half a dozen button mushrooms, a small glass of wine, if at hand, and a little stock. Cook for another five minutes, and serve with sippets of toast.

Chicken Liver and Bacon.

Cleanse and separate chicken livers into four pieces, wrap in a slice of streaky bacon, fastening on one side with a tiny skewer. Roast in a moderate oven till livers are done. Then remove skewers and serve around a mound of hot boiled rice which has been lightly salted for a few minutes in bacon fat.

Banana Puree.

Open a can of sliced pineapple, lay one slice on each serving dish, put sound, fully ripe bananas through a ricer, sweeten and to each cupful of puree add two tablespoonfuls of orange juice. Pile in a mound on the pineapple and dust with sugar. Garnish with canned cherries.

LADIES' NIGHTGOWN.

Paris Pattern No. 3331. All Seams Allowed.—A garment which for comfort must be simple is the nightgown, and we have selected for our illustration a style which can be made in a day or less by any enterprising woman, without interfering with other work. There is no opening in the ordinary sense of the word, for the gown is to be slipped over the head. The neck is cut out so as to give ample room to do this. The balance of the nightgown is made in the usual manner. There is very little fullness, and what there is will be found at the base of the yoke outline. The sleeves are in bishop design, and may be made either long or short, as preferred. The pattern is in 7 sizes—32 to 44 inches bust measure. Size 36 bust requires 5 1/2 yards of material 36 inches wide.

GIRLS' DRESS.

Paris Pattern No. 3314. All Seams Allowed.—There are few women who, at one time or another, have not seen the distressing spectacle of an over-dressed child, and they will surely agree that it is better to sin on the side of simplicity than on the other. We illustrate a model which is simplicity itself. It will be ideal for school and playtime, as there will be little labor in making or in laundering it, two things which the busy house mother most generally considers. This dress will be handsome if made of white poplin or linen, and it will also be pretty in gingham and mercerized cotton fabrics. The pattern is in 4 sizes—6 to 12 years. Size 8 years requires 3 yards of material 36 inches wide.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.
